

When Will I Ever Learn
Written By Alvin Ray Kessinger
03/03/2012
Copyright/Registered BMI

One lonely night, one sleepless night, without you by my side.
I toss and turn, the tears that burn, why can't I forget my pride.
She left today, she went away, she said She would not return.
I said o k,then you can stay, when will I ever learn.

Sometimes I say the dumbest things, I don't realize the hurt it brings.
If I could see her one more time, I think maybe I could change her mind.
I'd tell her exactly how I feel, I'd let her know my love is real.
Then everything would be allright, and for me there'ed be no sleepless night.

One lonely night, one sleepless night, without you by my side.
I toss and turn, the tears that burn, why can't I forget my pride.
She left today, she went away, she said She would not return.
I said o k,then you can stay, when will I ever learn.

She told me she would not be back, when she went out the door.
Waite a minnet, it's a fact, she has done all this before.
She will stay for a while, think it over then come back in time.
And when she does I'll just smile at her, then give her a piece of my mind.

One lonely night, one sleepless night, without you by my side.
I toss and turn, the tears that burn, why can't I forget my pride.
She left today, she went away, she said She would not return.
I said o k,then you can stay, when will I ever learn.