

You Must Be Looken For Someone Just Like Me
Written By Alvin Ray Kessinger
10/08/2011
Copywrite/ Registered BMI

Are you looken for a heart that you can mend?
Are you looken for someone to call your friend?
And are you, all alone just like me?
Well I guess, you must be looking for me.

I saw you in the corner looking at me.
Was you hoping I would be what you wanted me to be?
Could you see the empty feeling written all across my face?
Did you wonder what I am doing sitting here in this place?

I'm the same as any other who's been through what I've been through.
Under the circumstances this was all that I could do.
I know I'll get better, but it will take some time.
I've got to look ahead, and leave that other life behind.

Are you looken for a heart that you can mend?
Are you looken for someone to call your friend?
And are you, all alone just like me?
Well I guess, you must be looking just for me.

I know that I could use, some company.
So will you come on over, and sit with me.
After all it's a way, to pass the time.
And for a while I'll leave that other life behind

Are you looken for a heart that you can mend?
Are you looken for someone to call your friend?
And are you, all alone just like me?
Well I guess, you must be looking just for me.